SCHOLARSHIP | COMMUNITY | FAITH
As one of the South’s premier Christian liberal arts colleges, Milligan is grounded in a tradition of excellence in scholarship, an emphasis on community, and a dependence on faith. We teach these principles in the classroom, and they are a part of every facet of the Milligan experience—from the professors who model lives of service and learning to the lifelong friendships formed here. Students come to Milligan to study, but they become part of something much bigger—a place where they can grow in scholarship, community, and faith.
Buff

noun /baf/

1. A person who is enthusiastic and very knowledgeable about a particular subject.

2. A student, alum, faculty, or staff member of Milligan.
Scholarship
What you learn in college helps direct the course of your future. That’s why our faculty do not hesitate to ask challenging and difficult questions or explore issues that are sometimes tricky. We think it’s important for tomorrow’s leaders to be individuals who can think for themselves and are willing to explore the nature and meaning of the world.
This “History Buff” graduated from Milligan in 2000 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and history. While at Milligan, he was selected as a Pew Younger Scholar at the University of Notre Dame, which ultimately led him to attend Notre Dame for both his master’s and doctorate degrees. For his dissertation, Dr. Blackburn worked through hundreds of pages of untranslated Greek manuscripts written by a fifth-century bishop, Cyril of Alexandria. He now serves as director of Milligan’s unique humanities program.
LIBERAL ARTS

Whatever their undergraduate major, students get a broad-based liberal arts education at Milligan. “Liberal arts” is a time-honored, valuable way of learning that complements any major. It also is excellent career preparation. The top skills employers seek in potential employees are communication and analytical skills, the ability to work in a team, technical skills, and a strong work ethic—all practical outcomes of a liberal arts education that prepares students for a shifting global economy. At Milligan, this style of learning is built on the foundation of our unique interdisciplinary Humanities Program, where students study the ideas and events that have shaped history and created contemporary civilizations. This provides invaluable tools, not only to make a living but to make sense out of life. A college education doesn’t get any better than that.

THOUGHT-LEADING FACULTY

Our faculty are among the best in their fields. They cultivate potential and help our students achieve their dreams and goals. Their primary focus is teaching and mentoring students. Many also are involved in academic research, publishing articles and books, serving in national organizations, and consulting for corporations and non-profits. They not only see themselves as professors who happen to teach at a Christian college, but they are Christians who have the opportunity to serve Christ as scholars and educators.

WHAT’S IN A NAMESAKE?

Faculty are so important at Milligan that the college has the rare distinction of being named not for its founder or location, but for a teacher. Josephus Hopwood, founding president of Milligan, chose the name to honor his favorite professor, Robert Milligan. Be part of our 150th anniversary celebration in 2016!
Undergraduate research starts with your burning question—what interests you? The topics are limitless. Our students have studied everything from the effects of exercise on a McDonald's diet to video game music as an art form. They have completed research experiences with renowned experts in medicine and behavioral science and presented posters and papers on Capitol Hill and at national conferences.

Our students are encouraged to apply what they learn through our Undergraduate Research Program, where they partner with faculty on a learning project beyond the classroom. Students conduct research, perform on stage, exhibit original artwork, present at conferences, and publish written works.

Undergraduate research helps you build skills and experience to strengthen your résumé, land competitive jobs, or get into a top graduate school. It also helps develop critical-thinking skills and increase your interaction and learning from your professors with one-on-one faculty-mentored research projects. Each year, many Milligan graduates advance to prestigious and quality graduate schools and programs or secure impressive jobs as they begin their careers.
Becoming a Buff: John chose Milligan because it allowed him to be involved in a variety of his favorite things—sports, academics, community, and faith—and he appreciates the genuineness of his education. “Everyone seems to have your interest in mind at Milligan,” says John, who is majoring in biology. After completing a research project identifying and quantifying levels of E. coli in a local stream, John found he enjoyed the practical and empirical nature of the research. This “Research Buff” plans to send his findings to the Tennessee Department of Environmental Conservation to contribute to their information on local water sources. John credits his faculty mentor with helping him make sure he is equipped with the right classes to prepare him for medical school.
Dr. Kellie Brown has enjoyed the musical journey that has brought her to Milligan. This “Music Buff” has performed with many excellent world-class musicians, from Christopher Parkening to Mannheim Steamroller to Charlie Daniels. In addition to chairing the music area, Dr. Brown teaches violin, viola, music theory, music history, and music education, as well as conducts the Milligan Orchestra. Frequently, she is found performing for various events and in Milligan theatre productions.
From your first semester on campus, Milligan’s Servant-Leader Experience helps you consider your role in our world, through personal and career assessments, class discussions, special events, and service opportunities. By your junior and senior year, the Center for Calling and Career Exploration helps students with interview skills and résumé preparation, internship opportunities, and job search resources.

Milligan grads are sought by major employers and graduate schools. Many continue in one of Milligan’s eight graduate programs or at other respected universities such as Duke, Princeton, Vanderbilt, and the University of Tennessee.

Whether you’re a “Music Buff” or an “Accounting Buff,” we want our students and graduates to prepare for meaningful lives of servant-leadership. That means helping you find that sweet spot where your profession and vocation match your passion and God’s mission—that’s your life purpose. Whether it’s teaching, preaching, writing, creating, deciding, inventing, or solving, God has a vision for your life, and we will help you explore and develop your gifts and talents to fulfill that vision. Students come to Milligan for an education and leave to fulfill a calling.

HUMANITIES EUROPEAN TOUR
You can learn about the world in the classroom and then explore the world in person through the many off-campus study opportunities available at Milligan. From summer experiences to semester-long studies, our off-campus options span six continents and countless cultures.

We educate men and women to be leaders in a global economy and to have a solid grasp of international issues, including cultural, social, economic, and political differences. If you choose to take the Humanities European Tour, your classrooms are cathedrals, castles, and historic markers of Western civilization that you will study with Milligan faculty as your guide.

Other programs allow you to experience the depth of culture in Russia, the Middle East, Latin America, or China. You can get a front row seat to the music industry in Nashville or take cues from filmmaking experts in Los Angeles. Develop a global perspective at the International Business Institute in Europe or cultivate your journalism skills in New York City.

See for yourself—at Milligan, a world of possibilities is within your reach!
Community
Milligan is a small, close-knit student body of around 1,200. Students come from more than 35 states and 15 nations, so you’ll find people with interests similar to yours, as well as those of different cultures, backgrounds, and views. From this, we are confident you’ll form friendships that will last a lifetime. You’ll hear yourself saying what so many other students and alumni have said about Milligan: “It feels like home.”
Multicultural Appreciation Week

Celebrate diversity with special events during Milligan’s annual Multicultural Appreciation Week. Salsa lessons, international meals, fashion shows, and fundraisers for missions and justice efforts are just a few of the reasons it’s a campus favorite. This week is one of many opportunities at Milligan to learn about the world and discover how you can make a difference.

TRADITIONS & INVOLVEMENT

The Milligan experience is flavored with fun, time-honored traditions that are enjoyed by generations of Buffs. These are the moments that connect students and alumni, and they’re the memories you will never forget. Every good tradition has a story. You can become part of these stories and traditions that make Milligan such a memorable—and fun—place!

Heritage

Heritage is Milligan’s premier traveling music ensemble. They have sung for many churches, community, and civic groups, and regularly represent the college around the country. With more than 20 years of history, the group is regularly sought after for their distinct a cappella style and presentation.

Christmas Concert

The annual Milligan Christmas Concert is a beautiful start to the holiday festivities and is one of our most anticipated events of the year. Presenting by the music department, the concert features choirs, orchestra, brass choir, organ, and a moving candle-lighting and singing of “Silent Night” in the beautifully decorated Seeger Memorial Chapel.

Open Mic Night

With its coffeehouse vibe, Milligan’s SUB7 in McMahan Student Center is a fun venue for Open Mic Nights, held periodically throughout the semester. Catch your classmates (and occasionally your favorite faculty or staff member) sharing their talents. From poetry slams to premieres of original music, the stage is yours!
One Acts Festival

For 25 years, Milligan students have taken to the stage to direct and perform in the One Acts Festival. No matter your major or prior acting experience, the festival is the perfect opportunity to get involved in theatre at Milligan if you don’t have time for one of the main stage productions.

Welcome Week

Welcome Week is unlike any orientation event you’ve ever attended. You’ll learn to feel right at home at Milligan with an array of on and off-campus activities to introduce you to your new surroundings and the lifelong friends you’ll make here. A highlight is the annual Buffalo Nation Migration to Doe River Gorge—a day you’ll never forget!

Wonderful Wednesday

Begun in 1969 as a day to ease the normal pressures of spring fever, the tradition has continued for this annual surprise “holiday.” Day classes are canceled one day each April and replaced by a variety of social activities planned by the Campus Activities Board (CAB).

Homecoming

A time for the entire Milligan community—current students, alums, faculty—to come together for a weekend of reunions, fun activities, and memories. Each fall, the annual Homecoming parade features floats from student and alumni groups.
Becoming a Buff: Coming from a large city in France, this “Travel Buff” first considered American colleges in New York, but when she visited Milligan, she knew this small school in East Tennessee was for her. “You actually feel like you are part of a community here,” says Clem. “Yet, you can be your own person at the same time.” As a “global citizen,” her journeys have led her to many places, but Clem’s experience at Milligan has been transformative. “I am learning a lot about myself here,” says Clem. Combining her love of travel, language, and political science, Clem ultimately hopes to work for an art gallery or an embassy.

The Nature Buff

Professor Mark Peacock - Morris, Illinois
Professor of Legal Studies & Photography

Originally from just outside of Chicago, this “Nature Buff” is drawn to the mountains and beauty of East Tennessee. His expertise is in business and law. He also teaches a digital photography class at Milligan and maintains one of the most comprehensive websites available for all things outdoor and hiking in our beautiful region, appalachiantreks.blogspot.com.
From your first day at Milligan—and for the rest of your life—you’ll experience the unique mentoring relationships our faculty have with students and alumni. Whether they’re leading a Bible study, inviting students to their homes for meals, or guiding a hike through the mountains, the faculty devote hours to mentoring and teaching their students both inside and outside the classroom. They participate in chapel, support music and arts events, and sponsor student organizations. They know your name, and more importantly, they challenge you to grow academically and spiritually.

Business Major, Photography Minor

Faculty adviser: Dr. Carolyn Massello

Becoming a Buff: Mitchell’s love for photography was inspired by his dad, and after borrowing his camera, he discovered his own love for it. “I want to use photography to capture special moments for people,” says Mitchell. Milligan opened up opportunities for him to exercise his passion by taking a work-study position as the sports photographer, which has helped him sharpen his skills and gain crucial experience. This “Photo Buff” also used his gifts during an off-campus study program in Nashville, where he took personality photos of musicians and photographed live, weekly concerts. In addition to photography, Mitchell gained experience for his business management emphasis, where he set up shows and led a team. He chose to study business because he saw that it opened the door for his creative passions. Mitchell plans to open a photography business or get involved in the music industry.
Tucked away in the Appalachian Mountains is a region rich in heritage, culture, and outdoor adventure. Northeast Tennessee is a land surrounded by lush mountains, enlivened by rushing rivers, and draped in undiscovered territory. But we’re not in the boonies. Milligan is located in the Tri-Cities region near Johnson City, a vibrant city with restaurants, parks, shopping malls, theatres, and more. We’re three miles from Interstate 26 and within a day’s drive of much of the Eastern United States. Come prepared to explore, experience, and discover our region.

Faith
Milligan is a place where Jesus Christ is exalted. We believe God has a unique plan for each of our lives—for our hearts as well as our minds. Together we can form a new generation of Christian leaders who are intellectually and spiritually prepared to change lives and shape culture.
Our mission is to honor God by educating men and women to be servant-leaders. Everything we do at Milligan—in the classroom, dorm room, or athletic field—is designed to encourage you to reflect on what it means to be a Christian in today’s society. Our unique senior capstone course, Christ & Culture, helps students examine how contemporary culture shapes how Christians understand and embody their faith and how they might respond to these challenges. We’re not afraid to ask tough questions and discuss diverse viewpoints because we want you to think through these issues from a Christian worldview and be prepared to live out Milligan’s Latin motto, Age Deo Fide et Amore, a charge to “Act for God with faith and love.”

CHRIST-CENTERED

We encourage high school students to attend the Student Leadership Conference hosted on the Milligan campus each summer by Youth in Ministry (youthministry.org). It’s designed for students who are eager to pursue God’s call and features Milligan students, faculty, and alumni.

CHURCH AFFILIATION

Milligan has an active relationship with the independent Christian Churches/Churches of Christ. Committed to the restoration of New Testament Christianity and the unity of all believers, these congregations are a dynamic and growing fellowship. Given this commitment to Christian unity, students from various Christian traditions find Milligan a welcoming community.

“It is simply incredible to engage myself in my passion every single day.”

-Michaela Dove
Becoming a Buff: Michaela comes from a family with around 20 Milligan alumni and has known since the age of six that she, too, would one day become a Buff. Although she knew where she was going, Michaela was initially unsure of what she would be doing. “It hit me when I first started taking social work classes,” says Michaela. “I realized school wasn’t just about getting grades anymore. It is about learning the content of the classes, applying it to my life, and becoming who I want to be for my future career.” By working with Milligan’s LINC program, which coordinates individual students with local community service organizations, Michaela put into practice what she learned in the classroom. With a social work major and business minor, this “Service Buff” is gaining the practical tools she needs to pursue her dream of working with a non-profit organization.
Milligan strives to educate students to be thinking and acting Christians. Students participate in programs such as chapel services and spiritually-focused events which help nurture the Christian spirit, character, and worldview. Opportunities include chapel services, cross-cultural events, devotional breakfasts, and FCA events. You’ll have plenty of opportunities to lead worship services, Vespers, and Bible studies. The Christian faith is about serving others, so students are encouraged to put their faith in action, hand-in-hand with faculty and alumni. We want you to become more aware of your culture and the world in which you will live and work.

Hayley Wyrick
Faculty Adviser: John Paul Abner
Coach: Rich Aubrey

Becoming a Buff: From the first time Hayley visited campus, she remembers being impressed by the authenticity of the staff and the beauty of the campus. “What really sold me on the school was the genuineness of the people,” says Hayley. “My coaches are men who I respect and trust. My teammates are my best friends, and since we are together so much, we’ve become a family.” This “Action Buff” loves being on a small Christian campus that strengthens her relationships, encourages her faith, and sets the foundation for her career. Hayley plans to go to graduate school and become a speech language pathologist.

Servant-Leadership
We believe that leadership is about service. Milligan encourages students to reach out to influence lives and the world around them, to practice servant-leadership through mission and service projects. Many classes incorporate service learning into the classroom. On short-term mission trips, in worshipping and participating in local churches, and in serving the community, Milligan students become more aware of their culture and the world in which they will serve.

“Basketball has taught me a lot of life lessons about work ethic, perseverance, and relying on others. I know the lessons and skills that I have obtained through the game will help me with other challenges life throws my way.”
